After Elder Jacob Knapp had concluded to go to California, and spend the winter in holding protracted meetings in that distant State, he engaged me to revise and prepare his manuscripts for publication. In the mean time he was called away from home, and I have been unable to consult him, even by letter. This fact has enhanced the delicacy and responsibility of my undertaking. It was not intended that I should prepare an original work, but simply edit the papers which the Elder might place in my hands. I have, therefore, aimed to restrict myself to this service. I have not sought to express my views, to use my illustrations, to present my style, but his. Knowing that his longcontinued and widely-extended ministry had given him an established reputation for originality in thought and expression, I have endeavored to allow him to state his own views in his own way. Especially have I refrained from making serious modifications of his sermons, because in them the reader will look for illustrations of those characteristics of power which, under God, have made his pulpit efforts so effectual in attracting and fixing the attention of the throngs that have waited on his ministry. It is possible that in the mention of dates, and the spelling of proper names, the work will contain some mistakes, as in these particulars I have followed the manuscripts before me, except in those cases where my own knowledge of...
