The ragged newsboys know her well--The rich never think of buying. Year in, year out, in her dingy shawl The wind and the rain she weathers, Patient and mute at her little stall; But few are the coppers she gathers. Still eddies the crowd intent on gain. Each for himself is striving With selfish heart and seething brain--An endless hurry and driving. The loud carts rattle in thunder and dust; Gay Fashion sweeps by in its coaches. With a vacant stare she mumbles her crust, She is past complaints and reproaches. Still new faces and still new feet--The same yet changing forever; They jostle along through the weary street, The waves of the human river. Withered and dry like a leafless bush That clings to the bank of a torrent, Year in, year out, in the whirl and the rush, She sits, of...
