Almost invariably boys prefer military History to any other branch of that subject; not because it recounts deeds of heroism and so forth - though people are apt to think this, is the reason - but because it is new to them. There is, so much of the ordinary ground of history to be gone over that the time for exploration into outlying districts is scanty; and the path is often so trampled and worn as to become monotonous to the. ordinary boy. Yet the same boy will attend keenly to intricate details,...
