Do you love the merry sunshine Or a perfect summer s day, The mountains, or the valleys Or the brooks that through them play, Or love the tiny pebbles That beneath the waters lie, The graceful, drooping willow Or the gorgeous butterfly, The restless, grand old ocean With its never ceasing roar - The islands in the distance Or the shells upon its shore, The old Point Loma lighthouse With its ever welcome light That stands there ever ready Through day and darkest night To signal weary strangers That in any danger wait A safe and certain welcome Within its silver gate. Do you love the southern breezes That softly round you play, Where the cold and dreary winter Has forever passed away, Where the starlights are the brightest And the moonlights on the bay Are enchanting - then come, O, come with me. We will take a trip to Paradise And there more beauties see; We will gather orange blossoms About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
